color theory

Spin a color wheel fast and it appears gray. That's the notion behind Infinite Neutral, a polyester textile by Wolf-Gordon in four cool-to-warm gray-beige colorways that are actually composed of threads in 30 hues. Ever since art school, when designer Morgan Bajardi wove primary colors together and was surprised to discover a rich gray, she's wanted to replicate the concept in a textile. The result? Multi-dimensional neutrals with eons of depth. space 10-161

strong, silent type

Its name may be Muffle, but the Okamura modular system for carving out quiet zones in open offices could cause a riot of applause. To oblige fans, the Japanese manufacturer has expanded and refined the line's adaptable panels, sofas, and tables with new colors and finishes, integrated power outlets, a cable management system, plus additional work surfaces and storage. The possibilities are practically endless. space 11-124

SELECT

What design pieces should you definitely see? Those at the Interior Design SELECT partner showrooms, of course! For the list of locations, see page 98. #IDneocon up and at 'em!

Sparked by sportswear and racetracks, Active, the latest nylon carpet collection by Shaw Contract Group, is meant to help energize workers. The customizable lexicon of kinetic, boldly graphic patterns "activate a space" with their optimistic flair. Boosting the invigoration factor are the three fluorescent colors specially developed for the collection. Available as carpet tile or broadloom. space 10-167

big leaps

Australian design studio Dowel Jones jumps into the North American market with the Hurdle series of chairs and stools. The simple tubular-steel frame is reminiscent of the track and field hurdle, while the white-oak seat is equally elemental. "This young firm has a talent for stripping everyday products down to basics," Grand Rapid Chair Co. president Geoff Miller says of how the work of founders Dale Hardiman and Adam Lynch caught his eye. space 394

NIELS BENDTSEN

pretty and private

Niels Bendtsen, of Bendtsen Design Associates, has teamed up with Allsteel for a much-needed Retreat... OK, they're not really going anywhere, but the so-named collection of upholstered lounge seating for collaborative work spaces will take offices to new heights of style and serenity. The wings on the high-back Wingback Lounge enable a modicum of privacy for the user, while the arms on the Lowback Lounge comfortably support various work postures. space 1120
